

NEW VACCINE FOR PNEUMONIA

Which Has Worked Well in Army; Administered in N. Y. State Hospitals at Federal Expense.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, March 17.—The United States Public Health Service with the co-operation of State Hospital Commission and the State Department of Health, has been administering the recently perfected vaccine for pneumonia to the patients of the state hospitals for the insane.

The indications are that this new vaccine will go a long way toward solving the pneumonia problem in the hospitals for the insane.

The work has been in immediate charge of Captain H. E. Hasseltine, assistant director of the hygienic laboratory of the United States Public Health Service. Captain Hasseltine, who was at one time connected with the state hospital service, in his report to the State Hospital Commission says:

10,000 Treated; Little Reaction.
"Having finished the work of administering the pneumococcus vaccine to inmates of the state hospitals of New York, I desire to thank you for the courtesies and co-operation you have extended to me and my assistants. We have administered the vaccine to approximately one-half of the inmates of the thirteen civil state hospitals, which gives a vaccinated group of approximately 10,000 persons. This, we trust, will give an excellent demonstration of the value of the vaccine under the conditions in which it was used. I had an opportunity to see the methods and management in your hospitals and cannot speak too highly of the general efficiency and scientific methods which I found in these institutions. I think that the state hospital system of New York can be properly taken as a model for all other states."

Developments will be watched with a great deal of interest by the hospital physicians, as well as by the medical profession generally, as pneumonia is always a very serious problem in large institutions. This system has been used very extensively in the military forces with most gratifying results, and the primary purpose of this work is to ascertain if the method is likely to prove equally as effective under other and different conditions. As the vaccination itself is extremely simple with little or no reaction, it is hoped the whole problem of dealing with pneumonia in institutions will be greatly simplified thereby. The entire expense of the work is being borne by the federal government.

Private Bostel Gets Little Mail from Home and Wants to Know All About Everything.
Private John P. Bostel writes his sister, Mrs. Veronica Mooney, of East Kingston, as follows:
On Active Service With the American Expeditionary Forces.
Feb. 19, 1919.
Dear Sister Veron:
I thought I would take the pleasure of writing you a few lines to let you know that I am getting along fine. I am drilling every day over here. It is raining most every day. Did you receive my postal card that I sent to you? I did not have time to write a letter. I wrote to you and I did not get any letter from you. What was the matter that you did not write to me? All the letters I got from East Kingston were two and they were from home, and a postal card from Tom Fay, and I sent you quite a few postal cards and letters and also to Tom and Joan. You told me Tom McCullough was home. Was he over here in France? I knew he was in Hancock when I left. Vera, is Father Cummings going to get a new car? Vera, tell Tom and Joan that I did not get their letters. You asked me how the weather was over here. It rains most of the time and we had a little snow but it did not last long. They did not have any sleighing over here. Did you have much snow home? How is everybody in East Kingston? I am fine and in good health. How is papa? I suppose working in the wood lot every day.
How are you and the boys getting along? I suppose they are big boys by this time. Sister, did you get my picture that you took in the backyard in my uniform? Are they good? Let me know when you write and be sure and write. How is Mike McElroy's wife getting along, and also all the rest? Is Mike working on the farm? Did you find out who that girl was who was writing to me and giving me cards by the Mooney's. Will you write with love to you and the boys, and good health. From your brother, JOHN.

Hope to be home soon, but don't know when.

A Suggestion for Kingstonians.
A candidate of Troy men has chartered the steamboat Trojan for an excursion to New York and return when the 27th division parades, March 25. The boat licensed to carry 2,500 persons, will leave Troy Monday night, and represent the Kingston community, and will start on the western lake convention to be held at Troy Tuesday night, reaching Troy Wednesday morning. Should the 27th division parade, March 25, there has been called for the purpose of raising money and means to buy down town pier in front of the Troy station to take care of the surplus mail.

Warren Is Dairymen's Delegate.
A special meeting of the Kingston Branch of the Dairymen's League was held at the court house Saturday, March 16, at 2 p. m. William A. Warren of Hurley was elected a delegate to represent the Kingston community at the State Dairymen's League convention to be held at Troy Tuesday night, March 22. This convention has been called for the purpose of raising money and means to buy down town pier in front of the Troy station to take care of the surplus mail.

Methodists Aim at $140,000,000.
The public mind has been somewhat confused as to the sum of money to be raised by the Methodist Episcopal Church in its Missionary Centenary for general world reconstruction, such as the building and maintenance of hospitals, schools, churches, missions, etc.

Originally the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions planned to raise $89,000,000, this sum to be divided equally between the Home Board for work in America and the Foreign Board for work in foreign missionary fields.

Next it was decided to add $5,000,000 to the centenary fund for war reconstruction work for the year 1919 in France, Belgium and the other war-devastated countries of Europe, making the total of the drive $94,000,000.

When the Methodist Episcopal Church, south, joined with the parent organization in the drive and set its quota at $35,000,000, it brought the grand total to $129,000,000, the figure which has been widely published in newspaper stories of the centenary.

Still later, however, the Joint Centenary Committee decided to include in the centenary fund $5,000,000 a year for war reconstruction work in Europe for the five years over which the actual paying of the money subscribed is to run. This brings the total centenary fund of the Methodist Episcopal Church, south, to $134,000,000, added, the sum of $140,000,000 arrived at as the total fund being sought by the two branches of Methodism.

TRACTOR PICTURE
At Kenney Theatre Showed Ingenious Attachment for Ford.
The moving picture at Kenney's Theatre last Friday and Saturday of the Ford-Du-Lac Tractor Attachment, of which Brown & Shultz of 244 Clinton avenue are the distributors, created a lot of enthusiasm and interest as well as being very instructive to both old and young alike. The house was filled at most performances and Saturday night to overflowing when many could not be accommodated.

Brown & Shultz also had a Ford-Du-Lac Tractor and Power Unit on exhibition Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Kenney Theatre Show when the Ford-Du-Lac tractor, a Ford chassis created a lot of unusual interest especially among the progressive farmers. They certainly appreciated the simplicity and saving where the attachment positively will do the work of at least five horses and two men and without tiring when attached to the family Ford, which can again be used for pleasure and more time for pleasure and at about the cost and upkeep of one good horse.

With the Ford-Du-Lac Power Attachment and Ford or any other car they can grind to dust, cut hay, cut wood, thresh, press hay, etc., and combining their pleasure and stationery engine with only one investment, operating anything about the farm requiring power as it develops in a simple and dependable way, they will find the full power of the automobile motor.

Correction.
Just prior to the opening of the Kenney Theatre an article in The Freeman stated that the ticket booth of the playhouse had been built by the Schenck-Holmes Co. of Chicago. This was based on wrong information and was incorrect.

MAN WITH JOB SHOULD KEEP IT
Thinks This Worker—Opposes Following Lead of "Agitators" Who Cause Labor Unrest Here.
Editor of Freeman:
Dear Sir:—Will you kindly print the following thoughts regarding the strike situation in Kingston. Are all the men who have been receiving big wages for months past, going to allow a man, or a woman, or both, to come here and create a disturbance and destroy all confidence between employer and employee?
Who is Wolfinger?
His name has a peculiar intonation, similar to what one might expect a "Red" or Russian or German name to bear.
Is this true of him?
If so, how we ought to admire any statement which he makes! As to the other agitator, who and what is she?
From expressions gathered from the men who have heard her speak, the language that she uses, answers this question.
Can the man who has received good wages and used them as fast as received, afford to be idle?
Does the man who has been able to save a few dollars, feel like being idle and using up whatever he may have saved?
Wake up men, don't you see that the man who has a job should hold it if he possibly can?
In a few days or months and even now, thousands of our boys will be home and industrial centers will be taxed to the very limit, and beyond the limit too.
Why let someone who gets big pay for doing it, fool you out of your money and living.
Is there such a scarcity of star matter among the real workmen of today?
If so, I wonder how they ever get to work, to say nothing about keeping their jobs.
In trying to adjust matters, so that they can be adjusted, ask anything that you would be willing to give if you were the employer. (Can you expect any more than that?)
(Signed) A WORKING, TAXPAYING RESIDENT.

St. John's Men in Pioneers.
In the list of men and women of St. John's Episcopal Church, who have been or are in the service of their country, which appeared in Saturday evening's Freeman, there was an error which is hereby corrected. Sergeant Charles Moxley has been with the 51st Hospital Regiment, U. S. Infantry, overseas, as are at present Sergeant Edmund Nelson and Corporal Ward Nelson, both of whom are now in Germany.

Home at Mechanics' Hall.
A St. Patrick's night dance will be held at Mechanics' Hall on Wednesday evening, March 20. Large number of couples have been secured and the affair promises to be a great and successful success. The popular orchestra will furnish the music for dances.

INVESTIGATE COLD STORAGE PLANTS

To be Begun by State Council Farms and Markets—What Law Requires—Council Members.

An exhaustive investigation of cold storage plants in the state for the purpose of determining just what food is being held in these plants, especially meat, has been directed by the council of farms and markets.

Jonathan C. Day and May B. Van Arsdale, members of the council, have been asked to co-operate with Commissioner of Foods and Markets Eugene H. Porter in directing the investigation.

It is planned to make the inquiry complete. The council by resolution has ordered that it begin at once and Commissioner Porter has been requested to submit his report as soon as possible.

Twenty Plants in Metropolis.
The resources of the department are to be thrown into the work. There are some twenty large cold storage plants in New York city. These will be inspected thoroughly. The New York plants alone have a capacity of 25,000,000 cubic feet.

The law provides that it shall be unlawful for any person or corporation in the cold storage business to keep "in storage for preservation or otherwise any kind of food or article used for food a longer period than twelve calendar months."

Another section of the law requires all persons or corporations engaged in the business of cold storage warehouses to submit a report to the commissioner of foods and markets stating the quantity of each and every foodstuff in storage. This report must be filed before the fifth of every month. Transfers of food from one warehouse to another for the purpose of evading the time limitation is prohibited.

The Council of Farms and Markets proposes a most complete investigation into the reports of food held in storage plants. The members of the council are: John Mitchell, of New York, president; W. E. Dana, vice-president; Avon; Datus Clark, Peru; Frank W. Howe, Syracuse; John Y. Gerow, Washingtonville; L. L. McNeill, Kinderhook; May B. Van Arsdale, New York; Jonathan C. Day, New York; James H. Kilgus, Brooklyn; William F. Pratt, Batavia; John G. Pombleton, Oswego.

HOW NAVY MEN MAY GET BONUS

A bill providing a gratuity payment of $50 to officers and enlisted men of the naval service was approved by President Wilson in February last and announcement of such was published last week. This payment is now being made to the men as they are discharged or released from the navy but the men that were discharged prior to the approval of this act by President Wilson may make their claim by writing and forwarding their original release or discharge papers to the following address: Disbursing Officer, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Naval Department, Washington, D. C. The claim must be substantiated by the original discharge papers as no certified copies will be accepted by the naval department. This gratuity payment of $50 mentioned in this article has nothing to do with the army but pertains to men of the navy only. The army claims are not to be sent to the above address. If the described form is followed out by the navy men of Kingston they will receive their $50 bonus promptly. One young man in the employ of The Freeman, who was discharged from the naval service last December, read of this bonus and received his check from the department today, making his claim only one week ago. If men of the navy that are now in Kingston discharged desire any information regarding this claim they may inquire for information of Jack Newkirk of the uptown Freeman office.

INSPECTED ULSTER COUNTY'S HOSPITAL

Annual Report of Committee on Prevention of Tuberculosis of State Aid Association Reports on Local Hospital.

The annual report of the committee on the prevention of tuberculosis of the State Charities Aid Association has just been issued, and is devoted to a report on the conditions as found at the various hospitals throughout the state, and of the work in general. In reporting on the Ulster county tuberculosis hospital the report states as follows:

The days in March, 1915, were devoted by the sanatorium visitor to a study of the facilities and needs of this hospital. Other visits were made in the course of the year by members of this staff.

The outstanding need, as previously explained in these annual reports for the past three years, is for additional beds. The present capacity, 26 beds, is woefully inadequate to meet the needs of Ulster county, with its population of approximately 90,000 and with its annual average of 129 deaths from tuberculosis.

The institution is managed by the Ulster County Tuberculosis Committee which receives an appropriation from the county for the purpose. In 1914 the state department of health recommended that this arrangement should be discontinued and the county assume ownership and control of the hospital. There is an obvious need of at least fifty additional beds. Under the present arrangement it is not reasonable to expect that they can be supplied. The state law requires a county hospital adequate to the county's needs. It is, therefore, imperative necessary that the county assume its obligation, take over the existing institution and expand it or build another in size and equipment capable of meeting the tuberculosis problem of Ulster county.

The present hospital as conducted is in the hands of a board of managers that is interested in the work, and a faithful superintendent. In the past fiscal year the bed capacity was utilized to 86 per cent of its available use. The hospital has the good will of the people of Kingston and Ulster county as is evidenced by the donations given for the pleasure and comfort of the patients.

MAN WITH JOB SHOULD KEEP IT
Thinks This Worker—Opposes Following Lead of "Agitators" Who Cause Labor Unrest Here.

Editor of Freeman:
Dear Sir:—Will you kindly print the following thoughts regarding the strike situation in Kingston. Are all the men who have been receiving big wages for months past, going to allow a man, or a woman, or both, to come here and create a disturbance and destroy all confidence between employer and employee?

Who is Wolfinger?
His name has a peculiar intonation, similar to what one might expect a "Red" or Russian or German name to bear.
Is this true of him?
If so, how we ought to admire any statement which he makes! As to the other agitator, who and what is she?
From expressions gathered from the men who have heard her speak, the language that she uses, answers this question.
Can the man who has received good wages and used them as fast as received, afford to be idle?
Does the man who has been able to save a few dollars, feel like being idle and using up whatever he may have saved?
Wake up men, don't you see that the man who has a job should hold it if he possibly can?
In a few days or months and even now, thousands of our boys will be home and industrial centers will be taxed to the very limit, and beyond the limit too.
Why let someone who gets big pay for doing it, fool you out of your money and living.
Is there such a scarcity of star matter among the real workmen of today?
If so, I wonder how they ever get to work, to say nothing about keeping their jobs.

Gorsline, With First Pioneers Helping Build Dock at Andernach—Story of Night Air Raids.

Jacob T. Gorsline of Kerhonson has received the following letter from his brother, Private Clarence Gorsline:

On Active Service With the American Expeditionary Force,
Andernach, Germany, Feb. 20, 1919.
Dear Brother—Your most welcome letter of February 2nd came tonight and I sure was glad to hear from you and to know you were all well as this leaves me in perfect health. That is the quickest I have got any mail from home yet. Our company has been out working today in our blue denim. With the help of the Third Division we are preparing to build a dock on the Rhine, as our supplies, etc., are coming up the river from now on instead of coming through France as they have been. Our outfit has been placed in the army of occupation so you see what that means, the last to see the states. We are in a small town and have everything comfortable, with plenty of Y. M. C. A.'s. I was out to a good show last night and expect to go again tonight.

The weather over here is just grand; seems more like spring. We had some quite cold weather the last part of January but it only lasted a week or two.

Where is Mike? Is he still in France? Yes, Jack, we were in the last drive which won the war. The Alouette-Argonne and I happen to know very near which divisions were in it. It was not one of the kind that writes a whole speech that there isn't any truth in it. We were in France just one week when we went to the front. At Chateau-Thierry, that was the place where they started the Germans on the run and kept them going until the end. We were also up on reserve at Fismes (Chateau-Thierry front) we went up there on the night of August 27th as you know in time of war all movements of troops is done at night. When we got within three or four kils from Fismes Jerry sent over a few gas shells, so we were obliged to go back to another town until the next morning.
The next morning we were up against it. We were forced to go in town while the Boche observation balloons were looking right down upon us and a number of planes sailing around spitting at us with machine guns. That day we went up at the front to repair some roads so the artillery would be able to get through but that night is one I will never forget the longest day I live. After being under observation that day you may be sure we knew what was coming at night.
About 9:30 they opened up fire on us with the artillery. No sooner had they did that when I heard three or four Boche planes humming, we could always tell a Boche plane by the hum of the motor. Those planes sure did drop some bombs. I was lying under a tree perhaps 500 yards from town. They dropped three or four directly in town and they shook the ground like an earthquake. Just then two shells struck just behind me and I liked to cry.
I jumped up from the ground. I there and moved a short distance and laid down flat on the ground, for when they are dropping close around one the best way is to lay flat to the ground to avoid getting hit with the pieces of flying shrapnel. I have seen a number of fellows get killed with just a small piece of it, no larger than a pin point.

I received a letter from Vaughn
Tuesday and he is getting along fine. He wishes he could be over here with me and see the country. It sure is worth seeing.

Well, Jack, it is very near 7 o'clock, the show starts at 7:30, so I'll close. Trusting to hear from you again soon. Your brother, PRIV. CLARENCE GORSLINE.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE TOWN

The Stroller Hears Dog Taxes Should be Paid This Month—The Yarn of a Dog Who Was the Greatest Fish Hound in the World.

"I see by The Freeman that only about 200 dogs in the city have been tagged so far this year," remarked the customer, as he dropped in for a chat.

"And this is the last month in which to secure a license too," added the busy barber. "But anyway it don't trouble me for I have made up my mind I would never own another dog."

"I did not know you even had a dog," interrupted the customer.

"And Spot was the greatest little fish hound in the world too," sighed the barber.

"Fish hound—what the dickens is a fish hound?" asked the customer.

"What? Not know what a fish hound is?" gasped the barber. "Why, man, I thought everyone knew what a fish hound was."

"Here is one that don't though," retorted the customer, tapping himself on the chest.

"It always makes me sad when I think of poor old Spot," said the barber, "but to explain a fish hound is a hound who will point for fish the same as another breed of dogs will point for birds while not hunting in the woods."

"What?" gasped the customer.

"Sure," explained the barber cas-tly. "When I would go fishing I would always take Spot along with me. Whenever there were any fish near Spot would stand and point, and I saved much time and labor by not having to cast in where there were no fish running."

"Unfortunately Spot had one bad habit. When pointing he would crowd up close to the edge of the bank, and when there were a large quantity of fish he would point with his tail sticking out straight over the water. One day a sickdog of a pickerel leaped up in the air and whether you believe it or not he caught Spot's tail in his teeth and bit it cleanly off."

"Unable to do any pointing without his tail poor Spot crawled away and died of a broken heart."

Y. M. C. A. BOYS DRIVE EXTENDED

Membership Reports at Saturday's Dinner Showed 52 Boys. Roundup and Enthusiasm Continues Among Workers.

The supper at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening for the boys who have been working in the boys' membership drive, was well attended and greatly enjoyed, the boys especially appreciating and getting a lot of fun out of the St. Patrick's Day decorations. At the officers' table St. Patrick's own hat, adorned with a bright green ribbon in the bow of which were two really-true clay pipes, formed first the table centerpiece holding a bunch of pussy willows with a yellow bird on one of the branches. Later in the evening, Secretary Thornberry proved the becomingness of the hat by wearing it great to the delight of the boys. Each table had its centerpiece of pussy willows and a spring bird, while the paper napkins were duly decorated with green harps, etc. Best of all, on each piece of ice cream served, there was a tiny green clover leaf and hat, which the boys could wear in their buttonholes in place of the usual green carnation.

Drive Just Getting Up Steam.
As for the drive, the boys—that some of them—seemed just to be getting up steam, and learning how to go about this new-to-them task. After the good dinner served by the boys, the boys had a splendid song—and if they had worked half as hard as they sang they would have had a much bigger report—and then came the reports as follows:—

Captain Harry Winchell, of the 108th, was not present on Wednesday evening last or today, so no report was received today from those boys, unfortunately.

After the reports were given, John Rowland called attention to the fact that there seemed to be some cause why the drive had not proved to be more successful, and stated that action similar to that taken in the army when a company does not make as good as it should be expected to do, the campaign extended another week. The plan was to reorganize the workers, hearing them and trying again for this readjustment. He suggested that this reorganized body of two division leaders and that division securing the most members during the week give the dinner the division losing, and also furnish movie tickets for next Saturday evening's performance in the auditorium. Major Rowland's plan was to vote by Commander in Chief Niles and was enthusiastically approved by the boys. Thomas Rowland being put in charge of Division 1 and John Connolly of Division 2. Workers were chosen from the boys who had already secured memberships, and there is sure to be nothing very live doing this week.

DEAN HICKEY ON BOLSHEVISM

Addressing K. of C. Annual Communion Breakfast Points Out Dangers of Doctrine to Standards of Christianity.

The Rev. Dean John J. Hickey of St. Mary's Church sounded a warning to Christians against Bolshevism at the annual communion breakfast of the Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus, in St. Mary's Hall on Sunday morning. Preceding the serving of the breakfast the Knights attended the 8 o'clock Mass in St. Mary's Church and received communion, the Mass being celebrated by Dean Hickey.

At the breakfast Frank Knight E. Frank Flanagan presided and introduced the speakers. The breakfast was served by Caterer Casper Ketterer, and was up to the usual high standard.

All Religions Assailed.

Dean Hickey was the first speaker and pointed out that there were forces abroad not only in Europe but in this country to tear down the barriers of religion, and to shatter the standards that had been set up by Christianity. He said that not only was the Catholic church assailed, but that other religious denominations were opposed and that the time had come for Catholics to stand firmly behind the church and its teachings, to stand in opposition to every movement that is intended to cast God out of the lives of the people. Whether these movements are called Bolshevism or Socialism or were being furthered under the banners of the I. W. W. matters not. They are dangerous and aim at the destruction of all churches.

At the close of Dean Hickey's eloquent address a motion was passed to send a telegram to Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, conveying the congratulations of the local council upon his elevation to archbishop of New York.

Debt Wiped Out.

William Dugan spoke on the "Fourth Degree." He said plans were being made for assembling a class to visit Albany in May when the degree will be conducted for the first time since America entered the war.

Past District Deputy John E. Mahan called attention to the fact that the debt incurred in erecting the Knights of Columbus home had been reduced to $4,500 and suggested that the members of the council at that time loan enough money to the council to wipe out the debt. This was done by the various members subscribing various amounts.

Attorney John M. Cashin spoke on the work of the council in the various patriotic drives in Kingston. The last speaker was Edward V. Scully, a prominent business man of Burlington, Vermont, who spoke on the work of the K. of C. during the war. He delivered a very interesting and able address.

But It's Always There.

Every man has embedded somewhere in his nature an instinct to dodge. And in many cases it remains dormant until he comes a taxpayer.

Saturday evening, announced that they would serve the final—positively last appearance—supper next Saturday evening for the boys, and they and all of the ladies who have so generously served the supper this past week were given, not merely a ringing vote of thanks by the boys and men, but a real ovation of appreciation.

Mrs. S. P. Hines has been very generously and efficiently acting as accompanist for the singing for the boys at all of the suppers. The men will continue to back up and assist the boys in completing the campaign this week, and it will mean a lively hustle to see who wins the supper and movie show, not to mention the greatest number of new members.

FIRST REFORMED CHURCH

Missionary Drive This Week Includes "One Day Income" Envelopes.

(Contributed)

The members of the First Reformed Church will receive through the mail this week an envelope containing other small envelopes for a contribution to the boards which the church is called upon to make at this time. This matter has been fully explained from the pulpit by the pastor but on account of the inclemency of the weather during the last two Sabbaths there are those who were not present to hear the explanation and appeal.

The situation is as follows: the needs of the boards are great. Our church depends upon the Duplex envelope ordinarily for contributions to benevolence but there are many who do not use it. So far as such are concerned special collections are their only opportunity to contribute to the boards of the church. Such an opportunity has not been given for some time and the consistory in view of the great demand for help concluded to make this effort that all who would might contribute whether or not they use the Duplex envelope.

Appeal of St. Paul.

The small envelopes sent out are labelled "One Day Income" and are used simply because they are on hand and serve the purpose. But the appeal is not for a "One Day Income" contribution but on the part of all who can it is hoped they may contribute several days' income—a fit thank offering for the auspicious ending of the world's war. The appeal is that of St. Paul to the church at Corinth, for a contribution "cheerfully" given and "according to ability" as the Lord has prospered the giver.

The envelopes with cash or check may be placed upon the plate at the next Lord's Day, March 23, or forwarded to the treasurer, Westbrook Snyder, North Front street.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAR. 17, 1919.

Bernstorff tells the "Democratic Club" in Berlin that, though U-boat warfare was a mistake, it was right because all Germany demanded it. In other words, if the people want it, it is both right and "democratic."

Many citizens paying three times as much income tax this year as last—because the government's great liquor revenue is to be cut off—are inclining toward the belief that it is better to punish relatively a few drunkards than to punish everybody industrious enough to earn more than a thousand dollars a year.

Large department stores in London announce that they will bring from Paris by airplane "several times a week" the latest French apparel creations. American department stores can't do that yet, but they can get the New York "creations," which, according to those supposed to know, have those of Paris "beat."

Sixty-five per cent of the population in Alberta and Saskatchewan is reported to be composed of American immigrants who have become the subjects of King George. This shows, for one thing, that American blood was in the great war from the start, not counting the enlistments across the line in the Canadian army and the enlistments of Americans in the French army.

Heckled on the Irish question while speaking in New York the other night, ex-President Taft "naturally" declared the problem to be a domestic one and not within the sphere of the proposed league of nations; thus taking his stand with President Wilson about this matter. How could he do otherwise? Unless the Peace Conference is to sit for several generations, it can not go back much farther than the war of 1870, confining itself to recent acts of spoliation and to those committed by Germany alone. Ireland's chief wrongs date back to the middle of the seventeenth century when Oliver Cromwell, supposed to be a democrat, not only cut off the head of the King of England but reduced Scotland to submission and subdued Ireland with an iron hand. If the Peace Conference or the League should free Ireland, it should also free Scotland and a few thousand other incorporated peoples. Neither the Peace Conference nor the proposed League of Nations could take up a matter so old as the Irish question, and in any case would be disposed to accept the declaration of responsible representatives of the British government that Ireland may have whatever a majority of its divided and contending elements may agree on.

A PROLIFIC WRITER.

What would the much-quoted Dr. Osler do with the case of Mrs. Amelia E. Barr? Would he dismiss it as merely an instance of "that singular anomaly, the lady novelist," quoting W. S. Gilbert, the witty writer of light opera librettos? For Dr. Osler said human creatures are practically no good after forty and at sixty ought to be chloroformed and passed on to another world, and yet when Mrs. Barr died at 88 the other day she was working on her seventy-first novel, the other seventy having been produced after she was fifty. Mrs. Barr was indeed an anomaly but not a singular one. William de Morgan began writing after he was seventy and produced some half dozen powerful novels. S. Weir Mitchell, the nerve specialist, produced all his books of fiction after he was fifty, continuing the work into the seventies. Others who did the like might be named. Thousands of men have done great work in many lines after the age when, according to Osler, their best powers have hopelessly declined.

Mrs. Barr's work was too great in volume to be great in quality, but it brought her the money she was compelled to make and it ably and ably entertained a multitude of readers. Her late brainning was due to the fact that she was a devoted wife and the mother of thirteen children. She began to employ her pen to support herself and her daughters after her late husband died in 1870. Of twelve children and counting, she produced a large family. She lived in New York in her later years and was a "moderate" whistler, yet conceded the belief might cause lack of interest in motherhood which she regarded as "a woman's job." Mrs. Barr's novels will not live long, but she was a great woman.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"I've heard that she walks in her sleep." "Fancy! And they with two automobiles."—Boston Transcript.
"Jack says if I don't marry him he will blow his brains out." "Don't worry. That would be a physical impossibility."—Baltimore American.

"Did you say she had a reputation for making people uncomfortable?" "No. All I said was that in her neighborhood she holds the record for knitting socks."—Life.

The Suffragist—"Tell me, my good man, would you go to jail for a principle?" The Hobo—"I once tried it, lady, but de experiment was unsuccessful. De jailer made me work."—Buffalo Express.

"You didn't get much applause," said the manager of the op'ry house. "I no longer ask for applause," said Mr. Stormington Barnes. "So many people accuse me of murdering 'Hamlet' that I'm thankful for a mere alibi."—Washington Star.

The Patriot.

"We should all be patriots," said a congressman in a Red Cross address in Los Angeles.

"We should all love our native land, our native city, our native village. There is something noble, after all, in the sentiments of old Hoskins."

"A visitor to the general store remarked to old Hoskins:

"Scippo, the novelist, was charmed with his sojourn here last summer. I suppose you know he's written an article about your town. He says it's the quaintest, sleepiest place."

"But here old Hoskins, biting a chew viciously from off a long black plug, growled:

"Wall, this here burg may be quaint, all right, but I don't see nothin' sleepy about a place where every's up at 4 in the mornin', winter and summer, rain or shine."—Exchange.

Checking a Presumption.

"There is a rumor that you may be asked to assume leadership of your struggling country," ventured the trusted retainer.

"I have heard such a rumor," answered Wilhelm.

"Well, you may be a painter and a poet and a lot of other things. But there is a limit to human versatility. With your shabby record for truth and veracity, don't you ever try to pose as the George Washington of Germany."—Exchange.

Sometimes.

A teacher was telling her class little stories in natural history, and she asked if any one could tell her what a ground-hog was. Up went a little hand waving frantically.

"Well, Tommy, you may tell us what a ground-hog is."

"Please, ma'am, it's a sausage!"—Ottawa Evening Citizen.

The Hustler.

Henry Ford gave the other day, at his experimental farm for disabled soldiers, a good definition of a hustler.

"A hustler," he said, "is a man who has his shoes soled often than he has his pants soled."—Exchange.

MR. DAY WINS IN APPELLATE COURT

A Decision of Interest to Shippers of Cattle Recently Handed Down by Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

George P. Day, a cattle dealer, residing on the Plank road, near Kingston, on February 17, 1916, ordered a car from the station agent at Grand Gorge for February 22, of that year, for the purpose of shipping certain cattle from Grand Gorge to Kingston on that day. He drove his cattle to the station to load, but the Ulster & Delaware railroad had no car for him and he was compelled to keep the cattle over night, awaiting the arrival of a car.

He claimed that he incurred an expense of $14, and was compelled to pay an additional charge of $1, in freight rates, which had increased that sum over night, together with 92 cents telephone charges.

He brought an action in the city court here to recover the expense he said he had incurred and was awarded judgment.

The railroad took an appeal to the county court, where the judgment of the lower court was affirmed.

R. R. Administrator Appeals.

The U. S. Railroad Administrator then took an appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court, where judgment was also affirmed.

Judge Cochrane, writing the subjoined opinion, states: "On February 17, 1916, the plaintiff ordered of the defendant's station agent at Grand Gorge, N. Y., a car for the shipment of cattle on February 22, from Grand Gorge to Kingston. The agent said: 'All right,' and according to custom telegraphed the order to the train dispatcher. The car was not furnished until February 23. The plaintiff, relying on the promise of the station agent, procured his cattle to be driven to the station on February 22. By reason of the delay he was occasioned expense in caring for the cattle until the arrival of the car for which expense he has recovered the judgment herein."

"It must be held that the station agent had authority to bind the defendant by the contract in question. In Clark v. The Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company, 189 N. Y., 93, 99, it is written as follows: 'In cases the implied authority of a station agent to bind the railroad by a contract to furnish cars by a certain day has been questioned; but the prevailing doctrine is that such authority is deemed to be included within the scope of his employment,' citing Wood v. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company, 68 Iowa, 491, and Easton v. Dudley, 78 Texas, 236.

"The station agent did not qualify the contract or make it depend on the ability of the defendant to have the car in readiness at the specified time. His promise was absolute and at least the court was justified in so finding clearly understood the contract and relied on it as is obvious from the fact that he procured the cattle to be produced at the specified time and place."

Judgment Affirmed.

"The judgment should be affirmed with cost."

H. H. Flemming with Judge John P. Grant of counsel, appeared for the railroad, and Judge N. Frank O'Reilly, with Thomas F. Coughlin, Jr., of counsel, for Mr. Day.

SHIPYARD STRIKE TIES UP TREMPER

There has been no change in the shipyard strike in Kingston and the men are still out on the Island Dock and the Hiltrebrant yards. The strike at the Hiltrebrant yard has prevented the Central-Hudson Line from carrying out its plans of placing the steamer Tremper on the Albany-Newburgh route this week. The Tremper is on dry dock at the shipyard undergoing repairs, which are held up by the strike.

The steamer Poughkeepsie of the Central-Hudson Line has been taken off the route and is in New York undergoing repairs. The steamer Odell is running in her place, and makes its first trip to Rondout today.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 17.—Most bullish interest was concentrated in the trading in the oil stocks during the first fifteen minutes of the stock market today, with Sinclair assuming the most prominent position in that group being on demand for many sources and advancing 2½ to 42, the highest price touched in recent months. Other oil stocks were also in persistent demand, Mexican Petroleum advancing 2½ points to 187. Texas Oil rose nearly five points to 214½. The rest of the list moved within a narrow range.

United States Steel, after making a gain of ¼ to 98½, receded to 95½. There were small fractional changes in other steel shares. The shipping issues were quiet and lower. American International declined ½ to 70½ and Marine Preferred ranged from 110½ to 109½. The copper stocks were not influenced materially by the American Smelting report, the unfavorable features of which had been known, but some of the traders sold enough of that stock to put its price down ¾ to 65½. Small fractional losses were sustained in the other copper stocks.

There was heavy trading in many issues all through the forenoon, with some important interests supplying Steel Common on a large scale, with that stock reacting from 96½ to 94½. The oil issues were well maintained. Sinclair holding around 42, while Mexican Petroleum rose over 4 points to 188½. General Motors dropped from 165 to 161½ and then rallied to 164, while Alcohol dropped 2 points to 138½. Atlantic Gulf, after selling at 116½, dropped to 113, and Marine Preferred reacted 2 points to 108½, while American International, after yielding 2 points to 69½, rallied to 70½.

The market closed irregular. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

KINGSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA EXCELS

Those in Similar State Communities, Say Experts—A Civic Factor of Importance—Kronold Tells of Soldiers' Appreciation.

Ever since our men began going to the other side, we have been making arrangements to give them good music as a matter of relaxation and recreation. And when we say "good music," we mean both music by worth while composers and rendered by good musicians. Only the best of our musicians have been chosen as fit for our military and marine bands. All of which go to show again that this war has created a demand for the fundamentally good and valuable things of life.

It has been uphill work to make the people of our community, up to the present time, realize that our Symphony Orchestra and the concerts given by that organization were of real value, to our community, not just a sort of fad on the part of a few music-loving people. There is no doubt today, but if our young men who have been overseas were asked whether or no it is worth while to continue our Symphony Orchestra concerts, their answer would promptly be in the affirmative.

Education Board Unconvinced.

Fortunately just at this critical period in our history, there has arisen in our city a group of men with foresight vision enough to realize that we have within our borders an entertaining, an educating and an uplifting factor in our Symphony Orchestra which has even a monetary value to Kingston, and they are bringing their business methods and acumen to the task of putting on a permanent basis this musical organization.

They have learned, first hand from friends they have in other large cities in the state, that nowhere else outside New York city in the whole Empire state is there as excellent a Symphony Orchestra playing the same class of music, with as much ability and musicianship as does the Kingston Symphony Orchestra.

While these business men have not yet convinced the Board of Education that this is an educational movement, as it is considered in all other cities, they are daily convincing our business and progressive men and women of the desirability of maintaining and perpetuating this organization as is shown by the increasing list of patrons and subscribers.

Camp Music Inspiring.

Hans Kronold, the wonderful cellist who is to be the soloist at the first Symphony Concert this spring, March 24, at the High School Auditorium, has this to say of the appreciation of good music as shown by America's fighting men as he played to them in the camps:—"The appreciation of good artists and good performers is indescribable and is nothing less than an ovation. Nothing is more inspiring for this reason than playing at these camps. It is a great mistake to think that these boys enjoy mainly the comic songs of ragtime. My experience has been just the opposite and psychologically speaking the opposite in taste is natural. There has never been a happier moment in my life, than when I played to this wonderful manhood of America and it should be plainly understood by everyone that these concerts are not a matter of entertainment only, but an absolute necessity." If this is true for our men at camp and over there, why not at home?

Since the board of education has ruled that there may be absolutely no admission charged for the symphony concerts to be given this year at the high school, the directors of the Symphony Society, under the able leadership of Executive Manager Leo F. Herbert, have determined to support the concerts in other ways. In addition to the patrons and subscribers there will be a printed program in which will appear the advertisements of our most progressive business men. George H. O'Neil has been assigned the task of securing these advertisements and is already meeting with marked success. Every advertisement in the program will go toward the support of a home institution which means a real business asset to our city, and the generous support of business men and merchants is asked for the same. Mr. Herbert is gratified with the results of the campaign for patrons and subscribers as well as that for advertisers, but considers the present report along both lines an initial move toward the support of the concerts the first to be given on Monday, March 24th, at the High School Auditorium.

Henry Coon, a brother of Attorney B. M. Coon, of Saugerties, died at his home in Elizabeth, N. J., on Friday, March 14.

The funeral of the late Elizabeth Tracey, who died at her home on East Bridge street, Saugerties, on Thursday, was held in St. Mary's Church on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Joseph Cushman officiating. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Word has been received of the sudden death of Miss Jane Irwin at Duluth, Minn. She resided for several years in Port Ewen with her sister, the late Mrs. Cornack. She will be remembered by many friends for her gentle and happy temperament and unselfish manner. She was just Aunt Jane to everybody.

The funeral of Mrs. Clifford Hicks was held this afternoon from her home in Connelly and was largely attended by her many relatives and friends. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. The Rev. Mr. Meade, pastor of the Connelly M. E. Church, officiated, and spoke in high terms of Mrs. Hicks as a Christian mother and neighbor. The bearers were members of the family. Interment was in the family plot in the Port Ewen cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Arthur Wismar, who died last Tuesday at her home in Buffalo, was held from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Thomas W. Wadsworth, one of Kingston's oldest business men, died Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Kingston City Hospital after a long illness. Mr. Wadsworth was born at Hartford, Conn., 37 years ago, and has been a resident of Kingston for the past fifty years. Many of the older residents of the city can remember when Mr. Wadsworth conducted his store and book binding on Bay Street near the old post office. For several years past he has occupied one of the stores in the Kennedy Row on lower Broadway. It was as a book binder that Mr. Wadsworth was best known and he was considered one of the best in the business along the Hudson river. He resided at No. 54 West Chester street. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Louise Patchen, one son, Irving of New York city, and one sister, Mrs. Samuel Clark of Hartford, Conn. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Caroline Kohler died on Saturday, March 15, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Menhardt at 154 Prospect street after a short illness. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Mrs. Menhardt's home. Mrs. Kohler was born Jan. 9, 1834 at Kleinmann, Hesse, Germany, and came to America in 1877. Her home here was on Golden Hill where it was her great pleasure to make her garden an object of admiration to all, and working on the land herself. Since her arrival here she had been a faithful member of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church and was a regular attendant at services until physically unable to do so. She is survived by the following children: Conrad and Frederick, in Germany, and Karl, August and Mrs. John Menhardt of this city. Besides the children, twelve grandchildren and three great grandchildren survive. She will be greatly missed by her many friends.

The death of Mrs. Grace Carpenter Hubbard, beloved wife of Lieutenant John V. Hubbard, Medical Corps, U. S. A., formerly head of the medical department of the Winston Company at Brown's Station, which occurred early this morning at the Kingston City Hospital, has cast a deep gloom over the many friends this charming young woman has made since her residence in Ulster county, and more recently at the Huntington, this city. Mrs. Hubbard was ill only a week, being seized first with influenza which later developed into pneumonia. A woman of rare winsomeness and sweetness of character as well as fine mentality and exceptional ability, her sudden death seems indeed a tragedy. She was a beautiful and intelligent lover of all that is beautiful and the home near Brown's Station was an ideal one. During a recent serious illness of Dr. Hubbard, Mrs. Hubbard put forth every effort to aid him in the complete recovery of his health. Dr. Hubbard left Camp Jackson, where he was stationed, on Thursday last, reaching Kingston on Friday, and never for one instant left the bedside of his wife, putting up a tremendous fight for her life, but in vain. That the doctor must go back to the service of his country carrying this almost unbearable grief has called forth the deepest sympathy of his many friends. Mrs. Hubbard has been a devoted and most efficient member of the Red Cross home service section of Ulster county, and her co-workers in that department are deeply grieved over her sudden death, as are all members of the Huntington family. Besides her husband, Mrs. Hubbard is survived by two brothers and one sister. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

The Rev. Theodore Bamberg, who has served the parish of St. Andrew's Church, Ellenville, for the past thirteen years, died at the rectory Saturday night at 10 o'clock of complications, after a long illness. A more lengthy obituary notice will follow. The funeral arrangements are not completed. Father Bamberg was well and favorably known and has many friends who are sorrowed to learn of his death.

Edgar Mackey died at the home of his niece, Mrs. Henry Holmes, at Walden, N. Y., Wednesday, March 13th, following a long illness, at the age of 78 years and five months. Mr. Mackey was born at Grahamsville, N. Y., September 28, 1840, a son of Clinton Mackey and Susan Smith, his wife, and is the last surviving member of the eight children born to his parents. The family resided for some time at Greenfield following their residence at Grahamsville and then the family came to Ellenville, which was the future home of nearly all the members of the family, of which there were five sons and three daughters. Mr. Mackey was united in marriage with Miss Theodosia A. Bacon, in December, 1864, and following their marriage erected the home on East Center street, which they continued to occupy until Mrs. Mackey's death in June, 1918. In October of last year he went to Walden and boarded with his niece, at whose home he died. The body was brought to Ellenville on Friday and funeral held from his late home the same afternoon. The service was conducted by the Rev. H. H. Clemans of Nanapoch in the absence of his pastor, the Rev. J. E. Appleby, of the M. E. Church, of which deceased had been a member many years. He was a member of Wawarsing Lodge, F. and A. M., and six representatives were present at the funeral and acted as pall bearers. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors at the service and the interment was made in the Fantine-kill cemetery. Mr. Mackey was an honored citizen of the town and the death of his companion of over fifty years was a heavy blow to the devoted husband. There were no children, but a niece of Mrs. Mackey.

Miss Virginia Marshall, now of Walden, who had been a member of the home from a young girl and was to the aunt and uncle as devoted as though she were a daughter, and since the aunt's death has been devoted in the care of her uncle. For many years Mr. Mackey was in charge of a freight boat on the D. and H. canal for Hunt and Donaldson and later owned and was in charge of a boat on the western canal. Of late years he had retired from active work. He was a man of happy disposition, well liked by all who knew him, a kind husband, good neighbor and friend. He was an earnest Christian devoted to the church when health permitted, and it can truly be said of him a good man has gone from the community. Surviving are several nephews and nieces, residing out of town, two nieces, Miss Kate Mackey and Miss May Budd, who reside in Ellenville. The following relatives of Mrs. Mackey accompanied the body to Ellenville for funeral and burial. Miss Virginia Marshall, Mrs. Henry Holmes, Mrs. William Curry and Mrs. Gaylord B. Marshall, all of Walden.

SOME GREEN PAINT

That Is What Two Little Chaps Wanted a Coat of at City Hall.

They were two little chaps, and they stood patiently in the lower corridor of the city hall this morning waiting for some one to appear. Junior Richard Dawe was passing through the corridor when the oldest of the little chaps stepped up and said: "Please mister where is the man who paints us green?" "What's that?" asked Mr. Dawe somewhat startled. "Where is the man who paints us green?" repeated the little chap. Mr. Dawe commenced to chuckle to himself and then informed two youthful seeker after a coat of green paint that some one had been joking him, and he advised the little fellows to return home. Later Mr. Dawe happened to pass through the corridor again, and he saw that the little chaps were still there. He questioned them further and it developed that there must be some man at the hall to furnish the required paint for their mother had told them the night before that it would not be a bad idea for them to go to

MONSIGNOR O'HARE'S ROOSEVELT TRIBUTE

Eloquent and Scholarly Address of Brooklyn Clergyman on Life and Service of the Dead Statesman.

One of the finest tributes to the memory of Col. Theodore Roosevelt was that paid by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor P. F. O'Hare, L.L.D., of Brooklyn in an address delivered recently in that city. Through the courtesy of John F. Herbert, Sr., of this city, a lifelong friend of Monsignor O'Hare and an ardent admirer of Col. Roosevelt, The Freeman is enabled to print the address in full from the original manuscript of Monsignor O'Hare, who has been a frequent visitor to Kingston and has many friends and admirers here:

My Friends:
We meet this morning to commemorate in our humble way the death of one whom the world recognized as a great man and whom America considered one of her foremost patriots. The taking away of the 26th president of the United States stunned the nation and caused widespread regret throughout the world and distress among his close friends who are numbered by the thousands. The myriad tributes brought by his death coming from friend and foe and from every quarter of the habitable globe show the esteem and regard all entertained for his forceful, compelling and fascinating character. As he was a teacher who loved justice and truth, a leader who dared oppose popular errors and a friend who counted service a privilege and a pleasure, it is no wonder that he was recognized and considered as the most typical and the most representative of our great American countrymen. We shall miss his restless energy, his zest of living, his courage, his audacity, his democratic habits, his ready sympathy for every class, the mixture in him of the practical and the ideal, all those great qualities he manifested in so eminent a degree in his public and private life. Our loss is great. His gain we hope is in the life beyond.

It is impossible in the brief time allotted to us to do justice to his memory and tell in full the good he did, the burdens he bore and the offices he filled with so much of efficiency during the many years he had been in the public eye. I do not know then that I can do better in the circumstances than repeat the words of President Wilson, who has summarized the notable career of his illustrious predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt. In a proclamation issued from Paris Mr. Wilson says: "In his death the United States has lost one of its most distinguished and patriotic citizens, who had endeavored himself to the people by his strenuous devotion to their interests and to the public interests of his country."

"As president of the police board of his native city, as member of the legislature and governor of his state, as civil service commissioner, as assistant secretary of the navy, as vice-president and as president of the United States, he displayed administrative powers of a signal order and conducted the affairs of these various offices with a concentration of effort and a watchful care which permitted no divergence from the line of duty he had definitely set for himself."

"In the war with Spain he displayed singular initiative and energy and distinguished himself among the commanders of the army in the field. As president he awoke the nation to the dangers of private control which lurked in our financial and industrial systems. It was by thus arresting the attention and stimulating the purpose of the country that he opened the way for subsequent necessary and beneficent reforms."

"His private life was characterized by a simplicity, a virtue and an affection worthy of all admiration and emulation by the people of America."

This tribute of the living to the dead president nobly expresses the sentiments and appreciation of every citizen of these United States. The press of the country and our public men have been profuse in tributes of the dead, but everything that has been written and spoken of Mr. Roosevelt is only an elaboration of President Wilson's beautiful characterization of him.

Theodore Roosevelt's passing ends the career of the most unique figure in public life since the civil war and closes a brilliant chapter in the history of American politics.

Colonel Roosevelt was born in New York on October 27, 1858 and was graduated at Harvard in 1880. Early entering political life, he was in turn a member of the New York legislature, an unsuccessful candidate for mayor, a civil service and police commissioner and assistant secretary of the Navy. At the outbreak of the Spanish War, he organized the famous "Rough Riders" and was promoted colonel for gallantry on the field of action. In 1898, he was elected Governor of New York, and in 1900, Vice-President of the United States, succeeding to the presidency on the assassination of President McKinley in September, 1901. In 1904, he was elected president by the largest popular majority ever received by a candidate for that high office, but went down to a bad defeat, but a candidate of the Progressive party in 1912. In 1906, he was awarded the Nobel peace prize. Colonel Roosevelt's remarkable activity in many lines is evinced by the fact that thirteen universities at home and abroad, gave him the doctorate, and that the list of his books on political, historical and ethical subjects, fills twenty-six lines in the "Who's Who." There were no "half-light" opinions either in or about Theodore Roosevelt. The very intensity of his nature made him a tireless worker. Not only volume after volume marked his years, but letters without number and speeches on every conceivable subject and in every eloquent tongue poured out from his lips. Everybody knew this big man, his candor and his approachability. His friends loved him, his subordinates in office, his workmen, his servants, his townsmen revered him, and his enemies honored him with their cordial hatred. Positive, almost dominating in the defense of all he championed he never shirked a foe nor fled a field. His love for truth and justice was intense and he hated sham and pretense. The choicest epithets in his extensive vocabulary were reserved for pharisees and hypocrites. He cared not who the pretender was; he could not bear deception. Woe to the poster and sycophant whom he detected. He was as fervent a hater as he was a lover. The American people called this great man "Teddy" and the abbreviation expressed their appreciation of his sane, wholesome, human qualities.

Mr. Roosevelt whilst he was not what is generally called a religious man, was, however, a firm believer in the existence and providence of God, in the divinity of Christ, in the inspiration and veracity of the Bible and in the need of a church to proclaim truth and regulate morals. He believed in prayer and public worship and he practiced both humbly and sincerely. He had no use for those molders of public opinion, so numerous now-a-days, who systematically eliminate God and his rights from human action and conduct. It should be remembered that most of the life of the day in public and private life may be traced, directly or indirectly, to failure to recognize the existence of God, the Lord and law-giver, and to appreciate the nature of man, his destiny and duties. Right and justice, to be indestructible, must be built on the solid foundation of truth. Intoxicated by pride only too many of our supposedly learned and influential men have tried and are trying to rule God out of court. They have been and are failing miserably. It is high time for them to revise their program. As long as the United States preserves the motto stamped on its noblest coin, "In God We Trust," we need never fear for the triumph of right and justice in America.

In his reverence for God and in his loyal observance of his commandments, Theodore Roosevelt was an illustrious example to the American public. The tongue of scandal rarely spares public men and few public men unfortunately can challenge criticism. He like most of us, made many mistakes, but no one ever accused him of a dishonest deed or a shameful act. He lived soberly, justly and Godly. His heart was clean. No sin of the lips was ever laid at his door. His lips were clean. No one ever heard him utter a word which would disgrace a Christian. Money could not buy him and rectitude was his predominant passion.

His home life was ideal. No matter how busily engaged in his various offices he was always mindful of his duties to his family, mixing comradeship with exercise of authority in a manner that made a successful father. He was a chum of all the members of his household. He repeatedly expressed disapproval of the "Goody-goody" attitude. He said on one occasion: "I do not want any one to believe that my little ones are brought up to be cowards in this house. If they are struck they are not taught to turn the other cheek. I haven't any use for weakness and manliness. I want my boys to be strong and gentle. For all my children, I pray they may be healthy and natural."

Mr. Roosevelt was proud of his boys. Under God he made them what they were. Modern warfare, with all its horrors, had no fears for such boys. Never thinking of shirking their duty they went forth with many another to do their bit for democracy and won the plaudits of all America. The life of one son, the arm of another and the blood of a third, tell what the sons of an heroic father did for victory for our glorious flag.

In speaking of Mr. Roosevelt's love of home it is pleasant to record that no publicist did so much to combat the fearful plague which threatens to put an end to the family. Recognizing the influence of the church upon society and especially on the family, he endorsed the Catholic doctrine on marriage and proclaimed it with emphasis. No one ever spoke of birth control with such withering scorn. He christened it "race suicide."

Mr. Roosevelt also admired and respected the Catholic doctrine on the rights of labor and the duties of employers. He used the mighty power of his exalted office to secure fair wages and decent working conditions. Notwithstanding this, he was not insensible of the crimes of labor. He despised the noisy agitator and trouble-making delegate. He denounced exorbitant demands and unreasonable exactions. He dared to tell labor that it has its duties as well as rights and he had contempt for those who seek only their own profit.

In the general make up of Mr. Roosevelt, there was not a scintilla of bigotry. Like a true American he tolerated the faith of his fellow-countrymen. He showed the greatest respect to all bishops and to the clergy of every denomination and he was not wanting in reverence and appreciation for those of the Catholic Church. Among his best friends, as all know, were Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland and Archbishop Spalding. Contact with his priest friends convinced him that there are no better Americans than the men who wear the Roman collar without losing their American spirit. He was the first president to address the Pope as "Holy Father" and he brushed aside no end of advice and criticism to do it. "They wanted me to call him great and good friend." He said, "Why that is the way I would address Queen Lili of Hawaii." Mr. Roosevelt was a conspicuous figure in public life at a time when it was considered advantageous by not a few seekers for office to assail the Catholic Church and Catholics generally. Theodore Roosevelt set his face sternly against any policy that meant proscription of Catholics. In fact he often went out of his way to show his disapproval of any attempt to discriminate against a man because of his religion, and he was never afraid to let the public know how he stood on such questions.

No public official ever went so far to recognize the rights of Catholics. When he was president, he did not hesitate to place a Catholic in the cabinet. But he wanted practical Catholics. He had nothing but contempt for the Catholic who does not practice his religion. Nor did he favor Catholics at the expense of others. One of the most scathing letters he ever wrote was addressed to a Methodist minister who had the impudence to write him a letter protesting against the appointment of Catholics to public office.

When he was president the matter of the public school education in the Philippines was up for settlement. An effort was made by non-Catholics to secure complete control of the school system in the islands. Mr. Roosevelt, realizing that with a population so largely Catholic there should be a larger proportion of properly qualified Catholics among the teachers and administrators of school affairs, took measures to secure Catholics for such positions. It was done quietly but effectively.

On one occasion a party of men interested in work among the poor sought his support in a matter concerning a national charity organization. Looking over the group President Roosevelt noticed that there was no Catholic present. "Is this a representative committee?" he asked. On being assured that it was, he said: "Well where's my friend, Tom Muir?" (Mr. Roosevelt referred to the president of the St. Vincent De Paul Society in New York.) Tom Muir is the best friend of the poor in this country, and when you have him on your delegation come back to me and we'll talk about this matter." The men took the hint and put Catholic representatives on their committee the next time they went to see Mr. Roosevelt.

Countless good deeds bear testimony to the worth of him who now lies in an humble grave. His life work endeared him to the people. To do good was his aim. "To do the work of the Lord," as he said in a speech he made to a Bible Society, "in the world as we find it, to try to make things better in the world, even if only a little better, because we have lived in it. That kind of work can be done only by a man who is neither a weakling nor a coward; by a man, who in the fullest of the word, is a true Christian."

True to his God he could not but be true to his country. Honest, God-fearing, unblemished, he will be remembered as a real patriotic American. He has bequeathed to his country a sense of glowing nationality that all Americans now feel in their hearts. He achieved this by the flaming energy of his love of country, his extraordinary faculty for clear, strong presentation of hard, common-sense facts and by all of the ex-ampling episodes of a career that never gave gossip or scandal the slightest excuse for striking. No man did more or as much to awake America to a high appreciation of the principles of right and justice and truth and like him, we who honor his memory today cannot measure up to his standard of true Americanism unless we do what we can for our own moral uplift and the betterment of our fellow countrymen—one and all rendering to God the things that are God's and to America the things that are America's.

SATURDAY NIGHT BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Centrals Trimmed Scholastics. Crescents Outclassed B. R. C. A. And Fords Towed the Packards Home.

The first game in the Saturday night League was played between the Centrals and the Scholastics, which was won by the former team. The game was real exciting. During the first half the Centrals seemed to be rather sleepy and failed on a number of shots. The Centrals' forwards woke up in the second half and dropped in quite a number. Foster held Gregory well considering the difference in size and played a good game. The score at half time was 13-5 and at the end of the game it was 35-4. The score:

Crescents Won Easily.

The second game was between the Crescents and the B. R. C. A. Of course, the outcome was easily guessed as the Crescents won with a score of 41-16. The score looks as if things were rather one-sided, but such was not the case, as the game was real fast and exciting throughout. Jones and Ketchum did the bulk of the scoring for the Crescents. Ketchum showed unusual skill by dropping in six of his well known "sinkers." Culliton played an excellent game at center for the Crescents. Goldberg and Murray were there with that excellent close guarding. Halloran and Hornbeck did the bulk of the scoring for the B. R. C. A. One of the features of these games is the enthusiastic "rooting" by the followers of the teams. There is usually a great deal of rather informal debating on the merits of the players. Following is the summary:

Crescents.....	FB.	FP.	TP.

Burger Starred for Fords.

Preceding the big game the Fords and Packards had a tournament. As the course was very steep and hilly the little Fords just rammed right over the top while the Packards had to run in a low gear. The score of 22-8 was tied on the rear of the Fords. Burger, of the Fords, did the largest part of the scoring. Following is the score:

VOIGHT'S UNIT ARRIVES

With Twenty Men Wearing D. S. Crosses.

A battalion of the "Treat 'Em Roughs" of which Private Ralph Voight of this city is a member, being the 301st Heavy Tank Battalion, which swept over the heavily mined front of the Hindenburg line with New York's own 27th Division last September, arrived in New York on the first ship to arrive at this port flying the inter-allied flag, three-barred, of white, blue and white.

The 301st were the only Americans in France to take the big tanks into action. They drove them ahead of the 27th's advance at the Hindenburg fight. When General O'Ryan's boys stopped at the La Selle river last October 17 the "treat 'em rough" men continued on and won added glory at the second battle of Le Cateau October 23 and Mormal Forest November 4.

Nearly 50 per cent of the original personnel were killed or wounded. They met the last German attempt to halt the great tanks with mines. They had forty-eight tanks when they started. Only fourteen were in fighting condition when the war ended. Twenty men of the battalion wear Distinguished Service Crosses. Among them are Major R. L. Sasse of Wilmington, Del., commanding the battalion; Lieut. A. R. Murray of Montclair, N. J.; Lieut. John R. Webb of Riverside, Cal.; Corporal Albert F. Neil of Santa Barbara, Cal.; Corporal Troy C. Carroll of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Privates Ralph Voight of Kingston, and Robert F. Wisler of Philadelphia.

David Barnes's Illustrated War Lecture—Walden Beat Varsity At Basketball—Vets In For Hard Game.

Friday afternoon after school David Barnes gave a very interesting and enthusiastic lecture on war pictures. The lecturer was a representative from Underwood and Underwood, the official photographers of the Allied governments. He explained the numerous details necessary to understand the slides. The slides were the most exquisitely colored that have been released here since the close of the war. A number of pictures were taken during battles right up in the front line trenches, showing the terrible hand-to-hand fighting which took place in some of the big battles.

The biggest feature of the afternoon was the singing by Prof. William Searles, who with Miss Miriam Pitts, the accompanist, donated their services. This is the second time that Prof. Searles has come to the rescue and helped the high school out of difficulties. All of his songs were greatly enjoyed by everyone. His rich, deep baritone voice could

The proceeds which the juniors received from this lecture will be used to buy a machine for stereopticon slides which will be strong enough to be used from the balcony. The juniors wish to thank all those who helped them so generously, especially Miss Pitts and Prof. Searles.

Lost to Walden.
Friday night the local high school varsity journeyed to Walden, where they met defeat with the score of 18-22. They played in hard luck because the referee was unusually strict and every foul about was called a personal. As a result Webster and Wilson were forced out of the playing in the second half. The team fought hard but everything was against them, tending to hasten their downfall.

Webster, Thompson and Becker played with great skill at the forward positions. Meeker, at center, showed unusual skill and pep and scored two nifty baskets.

Whitaker, Wilson and Beeres, local guards, played exceptionally close and kept the forwards from scoring much on fields. "Darbie" held his man to one field basket, but he dropped in eight from the foul line. For the second time this season "Darbie" dropped in a field. He never was much on scoring, but he can keep others from doing any.

At half time the score was 14-10 in favor of Walden. Following is the summary:

Thompson, H.	1	0	2

Varsity Ready for Friday.

Captain Webster, of the High School Varsity basketball aggregation, is fast putting the finishing touches on his outfit of ball tossers for the game with the alumni crew on Friday night. From their demonstrations of practice it looks as if the Vets of 1915-16 will not have everything their own way when they take the court that evening with the high school boys that evening. Pass work has come in for a big share of attention and it will be one of their mainstays in defense. Everyone of the alumni is playing fast ball now and the only thing that may be weak is their team work, but that may be remedied by several practice games. As things stand now the game will be about the fastest seen in some time in scholastic circles.

"Curt" Shurter's inimitable orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for dancing. This will follow the game and no doubt there will be at least two hours' time given for everyone to shake the dust off his feet. Be a booster and see the game.

NAVIGATION ON HUDSON RIVER

The Catskill Evening Line resumed navigation for freight service Sunday on the Hudson river with the first down sailing of the steamer Storm King.

The first boat of the season to leave Athens was the steam lighter David which left for New York last week loaded with life rafts.

John Nailer of Catskill caught a 71 pound carp in the river while fishing last week. It is said to be the largest carp ever caught in that section.

The steamer Ida of the Saugerties and New York Steamboat Company will open navigation between Saugerties and New York on Wednesday leaving Saugerties at 6 p. m. that day. She will leave Saugerties on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 6 p. m.

SAUGERTIES PASTOR Accepts Call To Detroit, Mich. Church.

Sunday the Rev. George T. Helutz, pastor of the Lutheran Church in Saugerties, surprised his congregation by reading his resignation from the pulpit. Pastor Helutz stated that he had resigned to accept a call to Detroit, Michigan. He will preach his farewell sermon in Saugerties on Easter Sunday. Pastor Helutz during his pastorate in Saugerties has made a host of friends, and was esteemed not only by the members of his own congregation, but the village at large.

Fire in Newburgh Station.
Had the West Shore station at Newburgh been constructed of inflammable material the government would have had a new building to contract for today. A fire broke out in the store room on the platform level Friday afternoon. The fire was confined to the room in which it started. A careless smoker is thought to be responsible.

Wreck at East Walden.
The breaking of an arch beam on a coal car in a train of about 50 cars on the Central New England Railroad, near the East Walden depot, Friday afternoon, caused one of the most serious wrecks in that section in some time. Fourteen cars were derailed. Five were thrown down a steep embankment.

PLENTY OF MAIL FOR THIS SOLDIER

Mrs. Haines of 15 West O'Reilly street, received the following letter from her cousin, Private Percy Cole, now overseas:

PERCY COLE.

Feb. 19, 1919.
Dear Cousin—Just a few lines to let you know I am enjoying the best of health and hope you are all the same. You will have to excuse me for not writing before but it keeps me going to answer all for I received 16 letters yesterday so you see I have a few letters to answer. I thought the way some people talked I did not have any friends left in Kingston but they don't know all, as they think they do. Well I sure would like to tell you all about my trip over here and also about the good times, I have had the time of my life here. I was in a place called Noulter on the 11th of November and never had a better time. We went out at night and we met some very nice girls, paraded for about five miles and the next night the same. I hear that most of the boys I came in camp with is in Germany. I sure hope they clean them all out before they leave there. I will send you one of my pictures I had taken. I would have sent it before but have been moving around so did not get to it. Tell Gitty I will try and write to her soon. I don't know when I will be home. I guess this is all the news for this time so will say goodbye. With love to all, from
Your cousin,
PERCY COLE.

Relief Ball Tuesday.
The annual ball for the relief of the war sufferers in Europe will be held Tuesday evening in Griffiths's Hall on lower Hasbrouck avenue. Curt Shurter's orchestra will play, and an enjoyable time is assured those who attend.

POSTER DISPLAY AT ARMORY AGAIN

This Time for Returned Ulster Soldiers and to Remain a Week for Benefit of Those Who Did Not See First Exhibit.

On the night of the banquet and entertainment to be given to the returning fighting men of Ulster county the armory will present a scene that no other returning boys in other cities will witness when Captain Fowler again adorns the walls with his exclusive poster collection. As far as can be learned this collection is practically the most complete of any gotten together by any one man of the posters that were used by the various relief organizations in the furtherance of their work. It is the intention of Mr. Fowler to show the boys what the folks at home have done in the line of advertising while they fought the battles overseas. These posters will be kept on free exhibition in the armory for one week following the boys' entertainment for the benefit of those who did not see them when they were on display during the holidays.

The affair was given out of love and respect of her who has been a faithful member and worker in the church for thirty-five years, having served as secretary of the Ladies Aid for twelve years and always ready to do her part in all other organizations connected with the church. The evening was spent in a social manner and refreshments were brought and served by the ladies. She was presented with a lovely box of handkerchiefs and a bouquet of carnations to which she responded with much tenderness. Mrs. Dewey will leave Kingston in the near future to spend her remaining years with her son at Poughkeepsie and will leave with the best wishes from a large circle of friends.

COST NINE CENTS TO BLOOM IN SOCIETY

French Village Dance Described by Freeman Man Who Happened in After Wild Trolley Ride From Bordeaux.
Camp de Souge, France Feb. 17.—I went down town yesterday morning. I had not intended to but the sergeant from the M. T. C. came across with a fine Dodge and tempted me so I went. It was a very fine day and of course we promenaded and later went to the rink to look over the little Mies. That reminds me of the marriages of men to French girls, that you read about. One of our fellows is in the process of hitching and it sure is great. He has a stack of papers and sworn statements a foot high. Several mayors, justices, etc. have been interviewed and then you have to post up the announcement in the town where the girl lives for I think 2 weeks before the wedding. Anyone who objects or knows anything which is against the character of the party involved has a right to so signify by placing a red mark within the notice. That is the way it seems to be done from what he so far knows. I suppose if there are too many red marks you might be able to back out. As to that I do not know but it ought to be so I should think. He has been in the process for about seven weeks getting his and her record straight and I suppose in a few weeks wedding bells will ring.

A John Gilpin Motorman.
Last night after I had stayed as long as possible in town I took a trolley for St. Medard-on-Jalles, the nearest "city" to us and the terminus of the tramway. It is six miles from camp and three miles from Moulins Bonneau, our railroad until the U. S. constructed a railway into camp. Bonneau being the point from which we nearly always can get a truck into camp. Usually from St. Medard to Bonneau we have to use the shoe leather express. But to get away from geography and back to my story, they have been having women conductors on the cars until very recently, but now there are a few men. Last night we caught a car manned by men, both "intoxicated," to use the most polite word, and we had some ride.

First they ran by a switch and nearly had a head-on with the coming car. Then we backed up for a mile and the damn son of a bitch on the brakes so tight he piled everyone up in one end of the car and nearly tore the car from the track. We passed the other car and started again. He opened up the controller wide and we hit the high spots for several kilometers before he came to and shut off the power. Next the trolley pole jumped the track and the conductor was too far gone to replace it. In the dark so one of the passengers assisted. It was great and thrilling to watch the old son of a bitch fumble and make change. I gave him a franc and as he had no change he gave me an American buffalo nickel. It being the only thing which evidently looked like wooden money to him. At me as being in the awkward squad or doing K. P. for him drilling it will not need to be explained. However one of the sergeants just came in and asked how to get a company from formation into columns of squads, so I guess none of us will be stars for some time.
